Profile

Though he chooses not to practise as a barrister Gregory specialises in arbitration and contractual advice relating to construction and insurance matters having qualified both as a Chartered Quantity Surveyor and as a barrister.

His legal background makes him ideally suited to drafting agreements, contracts and documents for arbitrations as well as giving advice and opinion on difficult issues. Gregory has experience in assisting contractor clients in mediations and adjudication and in assisting experts in preparing expert reports. He is experienced in pursuing and defending claims from site level through to arbitration. He has represented clients in many dozens of arbitrations relating to construction and insurance matters, and also sat as an arbitrator. Gregory also gives seminars and writes articles for publications.
